New Author Sheila Chadwick Writes Unique Collection of Short Stories.

Indianapolis, IN October 22, 2008 -- PublishAmerica is proud to present Dramedy: Short Stories of Urban Chronicles: Volume I by Sheila Chadwick.

First time author Sheila Chadwick releases the masterfully written collection of short stories chronicling the lives of individuals who make choices that turns their lives as well as the people around them upside down. The characters live complicated yet exciting lives of bright ideas and antics that take the reader on an exhilarating journey of secrets, kidnapping, snitching, stalking and infidelity.

“Although a fictional novel, the characters reflect real-life situations that are occurring for many people every day and I wanted to find a somewhat comedic way to dealing with situations that tend to be serious and full of drama. Dramedy is such a labor of love for me and it’s wonderful to see my dream of this book come to fruition.”

Around 2004, Sheila began to summarize the entertainment news and forward onto her family and friends by way of a weekly emails. The response was great and It was because of this venture that she came to contribute her journalistic talents to other sources such as Crystal Magazine, Mahogany Magazine and liner notes for the Midnight Soul compilation released on the Right Stuff Records label; a division of Capital Records.

It was her contributions to other publications that prompted Sheila to evaluate her goals in life as she realized how important living out her dreams was so she decided to start her own magazine which she affectionately called Word On The Street.

Word On The Street the magazine was introduced in the fall of 2004 and quickly grew in popularity. In 2005, Sheila was profiled on Lifetime TV in their celebration of "Real Women, Real Lives" and in 2006, she was named "Diva Soul Sista of the month" by DivaSoulSista.com. Over time, Sheila interviewed more than 30 singers, rappers and musicians and in 2007 after her final interview featuring Chaka Khan, she retired Word On The Street to take her writing to a different level, finish her Graduate Degree and focus on writing Dramedy. "I never expected Dramedy to happen as fast as it did. Once I set my mind to making it happen, it seems that GOD just blessed me by lining everything up. GOD created the path and Publish America created the means and I look forward to following up with volume 2."
